Guberman Garson LLP opens Vancouver office and expands national footprint

We are pleased to welcome leading Vancouver immigration lawyers, Marina Sedai and Joshua Sohn to Guberman Garson LLP's new Vancouver immigration law office. With Marina, Joshua and their staff, the Vancouver office will complement our existing offices in Toronto and Calgary.

"The movement of global talent requires expert and efficient immigration legal services, both of which Sedai Law Office has an established reputation for delivering," said David Garson, National Managing Partner, Guberman Garson LLP. "We are proud to expand our services to the Vancouver region to help our clients move skilled-labour across international borders."

"While we have made tremendous accomplishments in service to our clients, joining Guberman Garson LLP creates a platform for growth and innovation that expands our capabilities," said Marina Sedai, previously of Sedai Law Office. "Our two firms share similar values. At Guberman Garson LLP, we will maintain our commitment to helping our clients improve their business through the cross-border movement of talent."
